

The IMF - BH Financial Arrangements

Stand-by is the IMF's financial arrangement which can be approved to member states faced with disturbances in the balance of payments. Funds for the Arrangement are provided from general sources (General Resources Account - GRA) under conditions that member states agreed with the IMF through a program of reforms which are defined in the Memorandum of Economic and Financial Policies, and Letter of Intent. Stand-By Arrangement is approved by the Executive Board of the IMF. It is common that the Arrangement lasts for two years and three months, the funds are granted in the phases - tranches (installments of loan), and each tranche shall be repaid in eight equal quarterly installments. Approval of the tranche is preceded by review of conditions fulfillment and the progress made in accordance with the agreed program of reforms for the previous period. The review is performed by the missions of the IMF.

Extended Fund Facility (EFF) is the IMF's financial arrangement which can be approved to member states faced with disturbances in the balance of payments. Funds for the Arrangement are provided from general sources (General Resources Account - GRA) under conditions that member states agreed with the IMF through a program of reforms which are defined in the Memorandum of Economic and Financial Policies, and Letter of Intent. EFF Arrangement is approved by the Executive Board of the IMF. It is common that the Arrangement lasts for three years (maximum four years), the funds are granted in the phases - tranches (installments of loan), and each tranche shall be repaid in twelve equal semiannual installments. Approval of the tranche is preceded by review of conditions fulfillment and the progress made in accordance with the agreed program of reforms for the previous period. The review is performed by the missions of the IMF.
